THE RESURRECTION OF OUR LORD

THE MALONE SOCIETY
REPRINTS

1912

This edition of the Resurrection of Our Lord has been prepared by J. Dover Wilson and Bertram Dobell with the assistance of the General Editor.

Mar. 1913.

W. W. Greg.

The manuscript, here printed for the first time, is a thin folio, measuring $11 \times 6\frac{1}{2}$ inches, bound in contemporary sheepskin. It is a Resurrection drama, divided into parts or 'plays' to be performed on different days. Of the entire production only four fragments survive, two belonging to 'the first dayes playe' and two to 'the seconde dayes playe'. The pagination of these fragments runs: 17-28, 37-38, 43-58, 63-66. Thus eight leaves are lost at the beginning, four between pages 28 and 37, two between pages 38 and 43, another two between pages 58 and 63, and an unknown quantity at the end, the last remaining leaf being loose. Each page is ruled in black ink, so that the text is enclosed within a rectangular frame, leaving a margin at the top for headline and page number, another at the foot for the catchword, a narrow column on the inside, and a double column on the outside, within which last are generally found stage-directions, Biblical references, and other marginalia. The manuscript is the work of a single scribe, though a few alterations, indicated in the editorial footnotes, have been made by what are apparently other hands. The handwriting is neat and very legible; but it is clearly that of a copyist, who has found it difficult in many places to follow the sense of his original. This is proved by the presence of several passages which are obviously corrupt, by frequent interlineations, and by the curious use of the query which, though sometimes employed in the normal way and sometimes standing for an exclamation-mark, is more often simply an indication of the scribe's perplexity. The question-mark at the end of the muddle in line 736 is an almost pathetic instance of this.

It has not been found possible to reproduce the original page for page, owing to the variation of the number of lines to a page in the manuscript. The marginalia, excluding of course those stage-directions which standing within the rectangular line-frame are therefore treated as part of the text, have been carried down to the bottom of the page, their original position being shown by circled reference numbers in the left margin. Beneath these marginalia and in different type are placed the editorial footnotes, giving information as to textual points. Deleted passages have been retained within square brackets, and room has been found in the text for interlineations, their presence being indicated in the footnotes. The letters u and v are often very difficult to distinguish, while the question of word-division presents a large number of doubtful points. In both cases it has, therefore, seemed best to follow the sense of the original, where the sense is obvious; and where it is not, i.e. where for example the word might be either 'you' or 'yon', to give the reading which appears to correspond most closely with the scribe's intention. For the rest, the original has been reproduced as exactly as the printer's resources will allow. The chaotic punctuation, for which the most conservative critic in such matters could find no justification either in grammar or rhetoric, has been faithfully preserved. The headlines, the names of the characters, and the first word of each speech, which are generally represented in the manuscript in a heavy Italian style, have been printed in roman capitals; the marginalia, when written, as they are for the most part, in a lighter Italian, are reproduced in italic; while everything in English, i.e. the entire text with the exception of a few names, has been printed in roman.

In the absence of any external evidence, all theories as to date and authorship must be extremely hazardous. It may, however, be noted that the author is clearly a Protestant, since it is scarcely possible to conceive that lines 311-320, 548-589, 810-834, and other passages could have been penned by one of the 'old religion'. At the same time it is noticeable that the fragments we possess contain none of those violent attacks upon Rome which we associate with Protestant miracle and morality plays, which is, however, hardly surprising considering the theme. We shall, therefore, be probably not far wrong if we assign the play to that period, extending roughly from 1530-1560, when under the influence of continental Lutherans like Melancthon, Martin Bucer, and Kirchmayer, a number of Protestant religious plays were produced in this country, before Puritanism had arisen to stamp out miracles as 'unseemly in this happie time of the gospell' or to denounce the stage generally as the gate of Hell. Among English Protestant dramatists Bishop Bale was at once the most famous and the most prolific. It is tempting, therefore, to father this Resurrection play on him; but beyond noting that in the list he has left us of his 'comedies' in the vernacular he mentions two 'de sepultura et resurrectione Christi', it would be unsafe to go.

As to the history of the manuscript, from which this work is printed, nothing is known. It bears on the inside of the cover the book-label of 'T. Brayne, Oswestry', but this is of quite modern date. It is evident that the manuscript was formerly in the possession of an owner or owners who looked upon it as of no value, and so did not scruple to tear leaves out of it. It was bought some ten or twelve years since at Messrs. Hodgsons' auction rooms by Mr. Bertram Dobell, in whose possession it has since remained.

The law-scrivener hand in which the manuscript is written is of a type very difficult to date. After invoking the kind help of Mr. J. P. Gilson, Keeper of Manuscripts at the British Museum, the General Editor is inclined to suggest the limits 1580 and 1630, but even this must be regarded as more or less tentative. The interpretation of the marginal signs presents some difficulty. Those which resemble an N are in a different ink from the text and merely mark exits of the expositor Appendix. The trefoil marks are in the same ink as the text and seem to be equivalent to 'nota'.

LIST OF CHARACTERS
in order of appearance.

PILATE.	a Senior.
a Centurion.	CLEOPHAS.
CAIPHAS.	LUKE.
ANNAS.	ANDREW.
four Soldiers.	JAMES.
MARY MAGDALENE.	THOMAS.
MARY SOLOME.	JAMES the less.
MARY JACOBI.	PHILIP.
MARY JOSE.	BARTHOLOMEW.
PETER.	MATTHEW.
JOHN.	SIMEON.
two Angels.	JUDE.
JESUS CHRIST.	APPENDIX, the expositor.

Appendix, given at the end of the above list, as not being strictly a character of the play, makes his first appearance at l. 291. The first speech preserved, howbeit imperfectly, seems to belong either to Annas or Caiphas. In the first play the name Christ is used, in the second Jesus. Simeon is presumably a mere slip for Simon Zelotes, but occurs twice, ll. 1238, 1287. The four Maries clearly depend on Mark xv. 40, where, however, at most three are really intended. Solome is Salome both in the Vulgate and the Authorized Version, Mary Jose is 'Joseph mater' in the one, 'mother of Josés' in the other.

WHAT he was or shoulde be, that knowe not I but this I knowe, that they accused hym of Envy they layed open cryme, never to his charge but wordes of blasphemye, agaynst their God and vsage and you knowe howe I woulde fayne have Delivered hym but that they were so busye on me, for the Death of hym

N.B.—Simple deletions in the original are indicated in the text by brackets. Where a word has been interlined above a deletion, the substituted word has been printed in the text and the deletion has only been recorded in the notes. Similarly simple interlineations have been inserted in the text and mentioned in the notes. References and signs appearing in the margin of the original have been printed at the foot of the text, their position being indicated by circled numerals, which, of course, do not appear in the original. In the notes '1 marg.', '2 marg.', &c., refer to the first, second, &c., marginal reference. Only one hand appears in the MS. with the exception of a few corrections which are recorded in the notes.

1 Either Annas or Caiphas is speaking.

then this that I Did, to have rydde my handes of hym 40

CENTURIANE

YEA, your honour doth remember, howe yester nyght last a worshipfull Senatour here was not agast bouldye to request his corps, to be buried he iudged belike better, then all the rest Did and as I vnderstand the mans Doynges yt is sayed he hath buried hym in a tombe, wher never non was Layed yet woulde you not graunt, his corps with such speade tell you lerned of me, that he was Deade in Deede so that when you harde he was Deade so longe before 50 your honour wondered att yt, and that marveilous sore

PILATE

I WONDERED att yt, for that the Bishoppes I saye vpon a superstition, of this their Sabbath Daye requested that those three, which were condemned myght be all hanghed, and soe Downe plucked vpon their requestyng, of this their hanghinge

My lorde, we doubt not, but yo^w consider yt perfectlye howe this vagabounde ys condemned to Death, most iustlye for besides he was, both a runnagate, and a traytour he was worthyer death, then any theiffe or murtherer P. 19 for he murthered our people, in a faulse beleife and stale them from our lawe, like a faulse theiffe nowe because his Disciples, doe creadyt his doctryne they be soe newe fangell, and to fantasies enclyne 80 yea trustinge everye worde, whatsoever he Did saye, Even this? that he woulde ryse agayne the thride Daye
we become vnto you here, my Lorde Deputie to Desier a watche, for his graves custodie lest his Disciples, (shoulde come privilye) and steale hym and saye he were risen, for anger, we Did hange hym which nayled hym to the crosse, without feare or dreade of their cursed fact, and most heynious deede and further I will not beleeeve my owne sight vnlesse with the sight, (that also) I myght even playne have my hande, in the wounde of his syde which was made with the speare, both large and wyde except I doe see this, in everye proportion

I will never credit his resurrection

PETER

THOU makes vs to marvayle, to see thee soe stiffe or what thinge shoulde make thee, soe harde of beleiffe for though we all at first, did doubt in the matter yet were not we soe stiffe, to contynewe in errour

THOMAS

STIFE, or vnstiffe, you cannot all turne me before I see and feale, those woundes of his bodye

IESUS

THE peace of God be amongst you Thomas, because thou art here, so harde of beleife and agaynst all thy fellowes, stands in yt soe stiffe that thou wilt not beleeeve, yet, my resurrection for all thy fellowes here, their testification
